Group fights for students

Amy J. Carroll
News Editor

When there seems to be no one fighting the bureaucracy for students' rights, the Student Lobbying Advisory Committee (SLAC) is here to help.

SLAC is a standing committee in the University Student Senate. Its membership includes six student members: the five student body presidents of the campuses of the University of Minnesota in Crookston, Duluth, Minneapolis, Morris and Waseca and a representative from the St. Paul campus; the legislative director; and the chairman of the University Student Senate. Currently, the University Student Senate chairman is Tim Allison, a UMD Student Association member.

The committee's functions include "...providing a voice by which university-wide student opinions can be represented both within and outside the U of M system; form-

What are the chances of contracting AIDS?

Patti Maurine
Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is the third article in a seven-part series on AIDS.

With hundreds of thousands of people already infected with the AIDS virus, you may be wondering, "What are my risks of becoming infected?"

Most of the AIDS cases reported to the Centers for Disease Control fall into one of the following categories:

- Sexually active gay or bisexual men or men who have had sex with another man in the past 10 years.
- Past or present intravenous drug users.
- People who have received blood transfusions or blood products before March 1985.

- Hemophiliacs and others who have received blood clotting factors or blood products.

- Persons who were born in or have visited countries where heterosexual transmission is high, such as Africa or Haiti.

- Men and women who have had sex with one of the above groups.

- Children born to mothers infected with AIDS.

However, cases of heterosexually transmitted AIDS have increased dramatically in the past few years. In fact, it is the fastest growing group of AIDS cases.

In some places, such as much of Africa, AIDS is found equally in men and women, and the United States' AIDS cases may one day reach the same proportions.

It is believed that untreated venereal disease

Pedestrian traffic jams

Survey handed out to find patterns

Will Rhodes
Staff Writer

As students walked through the halls Monday, they were handed a barrage of surveys about what building they were coming from or going to. At hallway intersections, videocameras filmed students walking to and from classes. This was all part of the UMD traffic survey.

The traffic survey was given to get an idea of the student traffic patterns in the most heavily traveled hallways. Heading this project was Industrial Engineering Senior Engineer Char McKurcher. McKurcher works part-time for Plant Services.

McKurcher said the UMD Building Committee requested that Plant Services conduct a study of the load capacity of the corridors and hallways leading in and out of Kirby Student Center. McKurcher added that there are three main reasons the traffic survey was given.

First, since UMD will be adding the new dormitory complex, there is a question as to whether the halls can handle the additional student traffic.

Second, the Building Committee is planning on building a new Student Achievement Center, perhaps expanding it off of the Kirby Student Center where the terrace is now located. Because of this, the committee is interested in the possibility of building additional hallways in conjunction with the new Student Achievement Center to alleviate the pressure of student traffic, particularly in and around Kirby Student Center.

Third, the Building Committee is also interested in the flow of traffic moving in and out of the the physical education and recreational sports buildings, and may also consider ways to reduce traffic flow there.

All of these considerations are still in these planning stages, and nothing is certain. Eventually, McKurcher said, the results of the traffic survey will be turned over to an architect who will work on a way to build the Student Achievement Center and to alleviate hallway traffic pressure in Kirby Student Center.

McKurcher added that in the end, the traffic survey is in the interest of the students because it is for the purpose of upgrading and improving the campus.

What's my beef this week? The Social Security system that's what.

In the midst of the Great Depression, a social security system was a perfect economic boost which the country needed.

It is now outdated and unworkable.

The social security system is now just a government sponsored "pyramid game" in which only those who get in first will get anything out of it.

It was only a few years ago that social security almost went bankrupt, and that was with approximately 29 million retirees being supported by about 145 million workers.

By 2035, because of a mixture of decreased fertility rates and more second-generation baby boomers, there will only be half that number of workers supporting the system.

Translation: either "Here, have my paycheck to pay for social security. I don't need money anyway." or "Gosh, my social security check is almost three dollars this month. Wow!"

One of the options people have already been using to counteract future money problems is the use of Independent Retirement Accounts, or IRA's as they are commonly known.

Large numbers of people, realizing that pensions are getting to be a thing of the past and that social security is supposed to only supplement their income, have put away money in their own accounts for the future.

This seems to be the most intelligent thing to do, but many people can barely make ends meet as it is, without trying to get an IRA going.

Why not allow everyone to get their social security payments back at the end of the year to invest in a retirement plan of their choice with the restriction that they not be allowed to draw from it until they retire?

And if the beneficiary dies, the next of kin will receive the money instead of the government.

Everyone will benefit from this. The Social Security System will make money by collecting interest from the investments on the money paid in by workers for the fiscal year.

Workers will benefit because they will have control of their own money and will easily make much more money by investing it themselves than by having the government hold it until they retire.

A system similar to this is now being proposed by Republican candidate for President Pierre "Pete" DuPont.

Rough rodeo? Animal rights activists from the Twin Cities protested outside the Met Center in Bloomington against the cruelty to animals involved in the sport. Animal rights people seem to be getting a little too extreme in their protectionist views. I can understand protesting a bull fight, or some inane animal medical experiment, but a rodeo? The animals may get a little embarrassed, if that's possible, at being tied up, and might get a little dirty, but I don't think they are being treated cruelly.

Am-Bushed: Vice-President George Bush and CBS anchor Dan Rather argued "live" on the nightly news Monday night. Bush's people said the presidential contender was ambushed by Rather. CBS issued a statement that said Bush knew beforehand what the interview was going to be about. Bush, in fine political maneuvering, managed to change the subject of the interview away from his involvement in the Iran-Contra scandal to the policies that he would make as president, which irked Rather into a, uh....lather.

Poster exhibition a success

Jennifer Martin
Staff Writer

Bulletin boards full of research displays in the School of Medicine atrium Jan. 19-22 marked the success of the Fourth Annual Scientific Poster Exhibition.

Sponsored by the UMD Sigma Xi Club, the exhibition included displays by area scientists in medical, environmental, chemical, physical, earth, social and mathematical sciences.

"I think this event helps to foster science by making it more visible to the collegiate campus and to the community," Sigma Xi President Joseph Prohaska said.

Some of the topics exhibited were forestry research, nutritional copper deficiency and the immune response, hyperbolic symmetry, and the earth's crust beneath Lake Superior.

According to Bonnie Hatten, the exhibition is a nice opportunity to see what research other scientists are doing. Hatten is a biology graduate student who, along with Dr. Stephen Hedman, presented a poster display about cytogenetic studies on the White Sucker.

In fact, there were a total of 29 displays by area researchers from UMD's College of Science and Engineering and School of Medicine, St. Scholastica's Department of Chemistry, the Natural Resources Research Institute, and American Scientific International, Inc.

According to Prohaska, the many disciplines at different levels represented at the exhibition was appropriate for a Sigma Xi sponsored event since the club's Greek letters translate into its motto: companions in zealous research.

"The members like to get together and talk about the important things they are doing in science," Prohaska, an associate professor of biochemistry, said. "It's interesting for me to learn what experiments a sociologist is doing even though I'm a biochemist."

Nationally, Sigma Xi is over 100 years old, but it was and prostitution is responsible for the high spread of AIDS in Africa.

Half the reported AIDS cases in the United States are in gay or bisexual men, while heterosexuals now account for 25 percent of the cases.

In Minnesota, 10 percent of all reported cases since 1982 have been among heterosexuals. Minnesota just recently passed 300 as the total number of AIDS cases in the state in the past five years. On the national average, this is low.

Minnesota's cases are less than one percent of the nearly 50,000 cases in the nation.

It is expected that the number of cases in Minnesota will increase more rapidly in the next few years, with as many as 1,900 cases by the year 1990, according to the Minnesota Health Department statistics.

This means that currently more than 10,000 Minnesotans are probably infected with AIDS.

A blood screening test was developed in March of 1985 and is used in all U.S. blood banks.

Hemophiliacs and blood transfusion recipients are no longer at risk.

While our nation's blood supply is safe, many other countries do not have the money or facilities for blood screening, so you may be at risk if you need blood while traveling or living abroad.

Factor VIII, a blood clotting factor which greatly improves life for hemophiliacs, is made from hundreds of blood donors' blood, which is why we see such a great number of hemophiliac AIDS cases.

Factor VIII is now heat treated to destroy the AIDS virus.

So what are your risks if you are a sexually active, single, straight, non-drug abusing person who isn't a hemophiliac, and hasn't received a blood transfusion prior to 1985? Well, your chances are about one in 10 million that you have AIDS.

However, if you have had multiple sex partners, your risk increases dramatically.

Sexual promiscuity is a big factor in the transmission of AIDS, as is evidenced by the sheer number of cases in Africa, and the rapid spread of AIDS in gays in the United States.

Your chances of getting AIDS from a single sexual encounter are the same as your chances of getting a sexually transmitted disease, or about 50 percent.

To quote Eddie Murphy, "AIDS is like Russian Roulette

-- the more times you play, the greater your chances of being shot."

Other things that increase your risk are having sex with a prostitute, having a partner who frequents prostitutes, having a partner who is bisexual (this includes women -- there have been two cases of women giving AIDS to other women), using intravenous drugs or having a partner who does, and having sex with anyone who is in the high risk group for AIDS.

Because of the possible risks, many singles today are choosing abstinence, which is the only way you can be absolutely certain you won't contract AIDS.

Others are choosing what is called "serial monogamy" or having long-term relationships with one faithful person at a time.

Some couples are putting off sex until both partners are tested for AIDS.

For sexually active singles who aren't ready for long-term relationships, practicing safer sex is a way to reduce the risk of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases as well.

Soviet researcher makes discovery at UMD

John Pothast
Staff Writer

Viktor Zhdankin, an exchange post-doctorate researcher from Moscow State University in the Soviet Union, is at UMD's chemistry department engaged in scientific research.

Three weeks ago, Zhdankin, who is a doctor of science in Russia, and UMD chemistry senior Rik Tykwinski, discovered a new form of a substance called hypervalent iodine, a form of iodine.

This discovery makes UMD the world's sole owner of this rare chemical compound.

Zhdankin is trying to synthesize new forms of the hypervalent iodine which will aid in the transfer of one organic compound to another.

But why UMD? Does Moscow State University not have the facilities to do such research?

On the contrary, states Zhdankin.

"There are very good conditions for research at Moscow State University. Also, there are good instruments in Russia. I came to UMD because there is a long common research history between UMD and Moscow State University," Zhdankin said.

According to Zhdankin, the two universities started swapping researchers about 15 years ago.

To balance the trade, UMD student Bruce Berglund has been doing research at Moscow State University's chemistry department since Sept. 1987.

"He came over in September, and I didn't leave until December, so I had an opportunity to work with him at the university before I left. He worked under me for three months. He's a nice person, and he's a very good researcher. He's having a lot of fun over in Russia," Zhdankin said.

The exchange of the two students is funded by the International Research Exchange Board, or IREX, on the American side, and the Midwest Universities Consortium for International Activities, or MUCIA, on the Soviet side.

IREX is a United States governmental program which supplies funds for Moscow State University students to come and do research in the United States.

"They pay for the housing, insurance, equipment and materials for my research -- everything," Zhdankin said.

"In total, there are about 30 Russian exchange students in the United States now who IREX is paying for," Zhdankin said.

The same considerations are also given to Berglund and other United States students by the Russian government.

"In the USSR, there is only one organization, MUCIA, that deals with student exchanges. Like IREX, they pay everything for the students," he said.

Along with his research about hypervalent iodine, Zhdankin is writing papers on his research in hopes of having them published.

"I'm preparing several papers on research which I did in Moscow, as well as scientific papers on my research here at UMD," Zhdankin said.

"I've had lots of publications in international scientific journals already. I've even got about 15 published in American journals," Zhdankin continued.

Zhdankin believes that he was chosen to come to the United States because of the number of articles he has had published.

"Persons who can go to the United States, or another western country, must meet very strict requirements. First, your age must be no more than 32, and you must have a degree not less than a Ph.D. You must also have good successes in research."

"I feel that's why I was chosen -- I'm young and I've written a lot about my research," Zhdankin said.

According to Zhdankin, the selection process is very long and competitive. "The selection for who was going to come here in 1987 started in 1985."

"Lots of people want to come, but only about 30 students come each year; that's why the decision takes so much time," Zhdankin said.

Being one of the lucky few to be picked, Zhdankin then had to learn fluent English before being allowed to come to UMD.

"My training was nine months of language -- ten hours per week at Moscow State University with a professor from Great Britain. It was very difficult to learn English because I was working on my thesis for my doctorate at the same time," Zhdankin said.

With most of his busy work behind him, Zhdankin is trying to enjoy himself at UMD.

"United States people like fun. They're nice and very happy. I'm also impressed by the friendly feelings (which Americans have) toward Soviets," Zhdankin said.

"There's only one difference I find (between UMD students and Moscow State University students). Here, students often work while going to school. In Moscow, students work in the summer for the government, and use that money during school," he cow State University is the best university in Russia, so lots (of people) want to get in, but only about 10 percent of the applicants make it in," Zhdankin said.

Zhdankin has been at UMD for only one month and has already found things he could do without.

"The cold weather here is unusual. We have no such cold in Moscow. Even though Moscow is about five hundred Zhdankin is gradually getting used to the American way of life and wants to see more of it, but still looks forward to going back home.

"I'm enjoying my stay here, and I hope to see more of your country, but I prefer my country," Zhdankin said.

"I thought about working in the United States for five years, but I'd rather go back to Moscow. I have good living conditions, research facilities said.

Furthermore, not only do students go to college for free in Russia, but the government pays students for going to school.

"Each student gets about $100 per month for living expenses, and graduate students get paid about 40 percent of what professors get paid," Zhdankin said.

Being a student at Moscow State University may sound like a piece of heaven, but not just anyone can go there.

"It's very competitive to get into college because they have difficult entrance exams. Mos-miles north of here, it hits 30-below only once in about 10 years," Zhdankin said.

Furthermore, Zhdankin finds the American transportation system a little to be desired.

"There are no problems in Moscow. Planes are cheap. I can fly in Russia for about $30 for a flight that would cost about $350 in the United States," Zhdankin said.

"Also, in Moscow, buses run by every minute. You have no need for a car in Moscow. Here, though, you need a car. It's difficult to get around here," Zhdankin said.

and lots of friends there," Zhdankin said.

Looking to the future, Zhdankin hopes that his work will be useful, and he hopes for better relations between the two universities.

"I hope for more communication between people, then there is less possibility for conflicts and wars," he said. "I also hope for more exchange in the future. Only one Russian for all of Minnesota is too small," Zhdankin concluded with a grin.

Government gets tough with loan 'deadbeats'

from College Press Service

The federal government has announced another "full-scale, coast-to-coast assault on deadbeats" who owe money to the government, including those who have not paid student loans.

Attorney General Edwin Meese, in announcing "Operation Deadbeat" Jan. 15, said the federal government would withhold delinquent borrowers' federal tax refunds, seize their property and hire private lawyers to help prosecute them.

The program is aimed at collecting about $80 billion in unpaid obligations to the government. About $5.3 billion is held by former students who haven't paid student loans.

At his press conference, Meese reported a U.S. attorney in western Kentucky seized a BMW from a teacher who had defaulted on a student loan taken out in 1976.

The Reagan administration, of course, has for years attempted to recover unpaid student loans from defaulters. In November, Secretary of Education William J. Bennett threatened to expel colleges and trade schools from all federal student aid programs if they allow future loan default rates to exceed 20 percent. In October, President Reagan approved legislation that allows the justice department to hire private attorneys to litigate defaulted loans.

In recent years, the education department has also worked with the Internal Revenue Service to withhold tax refunds from defaulters, reported defaulters to credit bureaus, hired private collection agencies and garnished wages.

Four days after the debut of "Operation Deadbeat," a "default summit" called by Rep. Pat Williams (D-Mont.) to forge a nation plan to cut the number Guaranteed Student Loan (SL) defaults ended, with Williams saying he had enough information to write a bill.

College aid directors and education associations were represented at the meeting, which discussed remedies ranging from better screening of students wanting loans to cutting schools with high default rates out of the GSL program.

SLAC from 1A

ing a legislative agenda and establishing legislative priorities; encouraging student participation in legislative activities; providing all campuses of the university with information concerning possible legislative issues of concern to students attending the university; and forming a co-operative network through which each campus has the opportunity to hear about and benefit from the experiences of other campuses," according to a University Student Senate description.

According to Allison, the most important function of SLAC is its lobbying. The committee spends time at the state legislature talking to senators and representatives who are on educational policy committees, trying to gain support to push through their bills.

One issue SLAC is currently working on is repealing the Minnesota sales tax that the university pays. This tax costs the university $8 million a year, and next year that may jump to $14 million once the university hospital exemption ends.

"Students worry about where the $8 million cost comes from," Allison said. If it means tuition increases or cuts in services, that would be detrimental to students. SLAC is trying to get the tax repealed and to get the state to subsidize the costs.

Rep. James C. Pehler of the Senate Education Committee is instrumental in passing such legislation.

Unfortunately, because this is an election year and because of limited funding, Allison said he suspects the proposal will not go through.

Another issue SLAC is tackling is trying to get a student vote on the Higher Education Coordinating Board. The HECB governs all higher education in the state, including the University of Minnesota system, the State University system and the Community College system.

Currently, there is one non-voting representative from the Student Advisory Council on the HECB who acts in an advisory function. Allison said he thinks the students ought to have more input on the board.

SLAC is also trying to get the rent credit reinstated. A certain amount of rent money could be claimed on tax returns. This rent money would then be refunded to rent payers. But a year ago, legislation ended the credit. SLAC is trying to get that money refund enacted again.

Allison said the rent credit reinstatement is likely to successfully go through this year, but it is doubtful that past money could be refunded.

Another issue SLAC is concerned with is financial aid. The current policy is that after the completion of four calendar years, eligibility for financial aid is ended. SLAC is fighting for this policy to change to the number of credits rather than by calendar years, since so many students take time off before completing their degree, according to Allison.

Posters from 3A started at UMD in 1955. Its 80 members, predominantly faculty and graduate students, meet about once a month.

"A scientific society which gets together in a social environment would be a good description of it," Prohaska said.

The participating exhibition scientists were on hand to discuss their research at the opening reception Tuesday, Jan. 19.

"I was very pleased with the reception turnout," Prohaska said. "There were over 150 people there to observe and discuss the posters."

Hatten said she entered the exhibition to benefit her own research and to have some fun making her posters.

"It was good experience for me. While gathering information for the exhibit, I had to organize and compile all of my research data," she said.

The displays also offer a good opportunity to see if other scientists are doing related research, she explained.

"It was interesting, fun and a good thing for me to do while working on my thesis."

University library and child care funding as well as the cost of tuition are other concerns of SLAC.

"The students have been received really well in the past. The legislators seem to like the fresh perspective students bring," Allison said.

On February 24, there will be a state-wide Lobby Day held in St. Paul. Members of SLAC, student governments and other interested students from around the state will converge on the capitol, bringing issues and concerns.

"Events will include a press conference, a rally in the rotunda and hearings with legislators on issues of concern to students," Allison said.

Intro to culture

They start with those five famous letters: I N T R O. Intro to Art, Intro to Music, Intro to Theatre. To the majority of students at UMD, these classes represent an easy way to chalk up some more credits in their Liberal Education requirements; a blowoff they need not study for or worry over. It's a poor attitude to have, but for some reason it is the norm rather than the exception here at UMD.

It isn't only these Fine Arts courses that get little respect here. The artistic achievements of members of the UMD community are often overlooked or underappreciated.

The Tweed Museum of Art (which is currently undergoing renovation) is probably the best facility of its nature north of the Twin Cities. Not only does the museum offer the UMD surrounding community with an opportunity to experience some critically renowned works, it also provides UMD students, faculty and staff with a place to display their works, widen their exposure, gain experience, and, hopefully, get a little recognition for their efforts.

It is rare that a college of our size has access to such a facility, and we as members of the UMD community should feel lucky to have it. Yet, while $16 million went into the remodeling of the Rec Sports Facility, only $1.35 million is being spent on the renovation of Tweed, and only $300,000 of that is from University funds.

If any one department in the School of Fine Arts does get recognition, it is the Theatre Department, but still, the extent of their achievements is overlooked. Last year the UMD Theatre Department was responsible for what was considered to be one of the five best college productions in the nation. To top that off, one of the department's students, Brett Rickaby, won the coveted Irene Ryan Award, singling him out as the top college actor in the United States. To use a phrase that was, perhaps, over-used last year, it is the equivalent to winning the national championship and having one of your players take home the Hiesman Trophy.

We hear a great deal said about the conference achievements of the varsity sports programs here at UMD, particularly the football and hockey teams. But it's disheartening when the efforts of another area of UMD go virtually unnoticed after their exceptional national accomplishments.

Now, we are not saying that athletics doesn't deserve the funding they receive. After all, athletic achievements can be as beneficial to a university as academic achievements, and without a recreational facility students wouldn't have a well-balanced undergraduate experience. What we are trying to do is point out that those involved with the School of Fine Arts work just as hard, and often times harder, than the highly publicized athletic department, and should be just as appreciated for their efforts.

Letters

No students, no University, no supervisors!

Editor:

As a student employee on campus, I've read with much interest the stories regarding student evaluations of supervisory personnel. I commend Tim Franklin for taking this proper step in regard to student rights. I also commend SA for backing this measure.

Some supervisory personnel seem to forget the reason they have a job in the first place. Without students there would be no University, thus no supervisory positions.

I believe that too many supervisors, staff and faculty have forgotten that the student is the basis for this institution. I've seen and heard of too many abuses by Food Service supervisors in regard to paying customers and student workers. I was shocked to read the quote in Mr. Franklin's article concerning a Housing Staff Supervisor's comment ("You are not here [at UMD] to think, you are here to do.") I've read other student's letters concerning the lack of concern on the part of the personnel. Most alarming of all, I've listened to many student complaints about faculty members. I wonder if some faculty are here only to write journal articles and to do research with our tuition money. I believe that "Commitment to Focus" ought to have been titled "Commitment to Students."

This letter is not meant to indict everybody related to this University, but rather the few sour grapes that have tried to spoil the learning process. In fairness, I have also seen and heard of many acts that truly characterize the proper role of education. In my job at Plant Services, education was stressed from day one. I have always been told that school work has the highest priority. I also have had much support from my advisor and the faculty and staff in the Political Science Department. This type of attitude should be the status quo at this institution.

I hope the use of the evaluations will have a positive effect on the working and learning environment at UMD. I also hope all students will continue to use the course and teacher evaluations at the end of the quarter. I believe these two items will help the student regain top billing at the school once again.

Sincerely,

UMD Housing Violation

Editor:

I am a resident of UMD Housing. My roommates and I

Junction apartments. On Wednesday, Jan. 6, 1988 we were interrupted, while studying, by a knock at the door. It was two officers of the University Police. Officers Peterson and Luoto introduced themselves and proceeded to show us some six polaroid pictures of alleged illegal items located throughout our apartment. Those items included 1) a "Walk / Don't Walk" Lighted pedestrian signal 2) a road construction lane marking light 3) a "Danger high voltage" sign 4) an "Exit" sign. The pictures were also of some items not considered illegal.

After presenting us with these pictures, all of the said items were confiscated by the University Police. The Police asked us who would claim possession of each item. None of my roommates claimed possession of the lane marking light, I claimed possession of the "High Voltage" sign, and our other roommate (who was not there at the time) claimed possession of the exit sign the following day.

At this point we were quite shocked at what was happening. We asked the police who took the pictures, and they told us Housing had (this was later confirmed in the police report.) We immediately contacted our R.A.'s, none of which had any knowledge of the situation.

I own a very expensive stereo system, and saw need to make a somewhat bold attempt to keep it safe over break. I asked our RA's if it was all right to put an alarm on our door over breaks. The alarm is not complicated, and with over five years of operation has never failed (NO FALSE ALARMS). Before Thanksgiving break I furnished the RA's with a complete list of operating instructions. I left a note on the door stating that the door had an active alarm on it and, if admittance was required, to contact either the RA's or call my given phone number in St. Paul. The main reason for contacting one of those two sources was to insure that the alarm would be properly reset after entry.

When we entered the room after returning from Thanksgiving break, we noted that the alarm had gone off and had been disconnected from its power source. I immediately contacted the RA's. It seems a university security person, not to be confused with the University Police, entered the room over break despite my warning. According to the RA, an extremely frightened security guard pounded on her door and told her how loud my alarm was. The security guard did not reset the system, he simply shut and locked the door. The security guard told her he entered the room to check the smoke detectors. When asked why he didn't follow my instructions, he said he didn't believe them. I told the RA to inform the Housing Department that, yes, this alarm system does exist. Then I pretty much forgot the incident.

Over Christmas break our room was once again entered by University Security. Neither myself nor the RA's were notified of the entry. Since the first intruder had found a somewhat simple way of disconnecting the power to the alarm, I changed the system. I estimate that the bell would ring for one to two minutes before the power could have been cut. Once again, the reason for entry was to check the smoke alarms.

This is where it gets pathetic:

The instructions on a similar detector suggest the owner test the unit "several times annually." This was the sec-

Opinion

Conservative and Liberal:

The pendulum is swinging to the left

David J. Broman
Opinion Writer

There are two increasingly separate schools of political thought in this country: you can call them Right and Left, Republican and Democrat, or Conservative and Liberal. It is my observation that these two sides of the political spectrum are separated by a basic moral disagreement.

Generally, the people on the Right who favor voluntary school prayer and a constitutional amendment to ban abortion tend to be the same people who support capital punishment, restrictions on food stamp eligibility and a foreign policy that will take the Cubans out of Nicaragua -- dead or alive.

Why is this? These issues seem unrelated, and even sometimes contradictory. What is it that makes proliferators tend to oppose welfare and support capital punishment? What connects these issues? I will answer this question later, but first let's examine the Left side of the political spectrum.

"Human life, for example, is no longer intrinsically valuable; it is only valuable if it creates happiness."

The people who oppose the anti-abortion amendment tend to be the same people who favor gun control, gay rights, and a national child care system. Why is this? What connects pro-abortion with national child care? In order to understand why there are basically two groups of political thought within our country, we must delve down into the deepest philosophical levels and explore each side's basis of reasoning.

Let us try to examine the Conservative-Republican part of our country. This is basically a group of people that is primarily concerned with justice, based on objective principals that are either God-given or natural. Many of these principals have been around for eons (they don't change with technology) and they are rooted in a strict interpretation of Biblical and world history.

Their philosophies seem based on what they consider "deserving." "Unborn babies do not deserve to die because they are innocent." "The murderer deserves to die because he or she has murdered someone." "You don't deserve welfare if you haven't even tried to get a job."

How do the conservatives feel about the Communists, those who killed thousands of Christians within months after the Communist Bolshevik Revolution? What do the Communists deserve? Can you see the rationale? Conservatives believe in justice and responsibility.

The Liberal part of our country is basically a group of people who are concerned with maximizing happiness, for us, right now. "The pain that an unborn baby suffers when aborted is far less than the pain that the mother may suffer if she has to take care of an unwanted baby." "Who says homosexuality is immoral? Let the gays have their fun as long as they don't hurt anyone." "Everyone should have enough money to live and be happy."

Now basically, the conservative group of people who believe in deserving things also must believe that we have free-will in the area of morals. How can you deserve anything if you don't have free-will? The Liberals, more or less, believe that everything we do is controlled by our heredity and environment, therefore; a) Put murderers in psychiatric wards instead of electric chairs, and, b) Create world peace and negate the family by indoctrinating children through a national child care system.

The vast majority of people who believe in an afterlife accountability are naturally on the Right side of the political spectrum. These are the people who believe that we are all ultimately responsible for our actions, and that we deserve to reap what we sow. Most evolutionists are politically to the Left because evolution implies that there is no afterlife accountability. With this implication, we can understand the materialist's sole purpose for living: to enjoy life or to maximize happiness.

Although the pendulum swings back and forth from Right to Left, the pendulum itself has been moving to the Left at an increasing rate for the past 80 years. Human life, for example, is no longer intrinsically valuable; it is only valuable if it creates happiness. Within only the last 15 years we have seen the emergence of legal abortion, legal infanticide (the killing of newborn babies), just recently the buying and selling of unborn human tissue, and the increased emphasis on euthanasia of the old. Twenty years from now you will see the disappearance of those born physically or mentally handicapped, and your tax money will no longer have to pay for the bed-ridden elderly. To some people I am describing a Utopia. To other people, I am describing the end of the world.

Letters from 6A

ond test within a months time. Does the Housing Department check detectors every three weeks in vacant apartments over the summer? Why would the Housing Department send a person who has no knowledge in the field of maintenance and who isn't even on the maintenance staff to maintain an apartment? Why did the gaurd have a camera with him? How did he get pictures of the bedroom while checking the smoke detector if the unit is located in the hall, outside of CLOSED bedroom doors? Why didn't he notify either myself or an RA before entering the room? Certainly it was not due to lack of knowledge in the situation.

In Chapter VIII of the Resident Handbook, it states that "A resident's room is considered private: no University employee(s) will enter a resident's room without written consent except: 1) In case of an emergency 2) When there is clear and present indication that a crime is in progress 3) When University policies are violated 4) Forcheck in and/or check out 5) For routine preventive maintenance checks, repairs, or maintenance."

Number five is the housing scapegoat. They are hiding behind it, refusing to admit they illegally search resident rooms. This may sound like a strong accusation, but it is not unsubstantiated.

First, I will quote a current RA speaking of a conversation that took place with one of the security gaurds who entered our apartment. According to the RA, the gaurd said "...these students are stupid, they still don't realize that we go through their rooms every break."

Last year I lived in Lake Superior Hall and was informed by a janitor ("Dan The Janitor Man") that University employees regularly go through student rooms.

One wonders why Housing does not do "routine maintenance checks" on apartments when residents are staying over break? Before each break, each apartment is contacted and polled as to who is staying. My advice is to respond "everyone."

The really sad part of the whole situation is that UMD could betray it's patrons. I have personally spent more than $4,000 on University Housing only to find them lurking in the shadows, waiting to pounce on my misfortunes.

All of this may sound like a child crying because he got spanked, but this is not the case. The pedestrian sign was retrieved from a sanitary land fill and the lane flasher was given to my roommate by his brother. Since niether of my roommates had proof of purchasing these items, they were assumed stolen, and my roommates were cited for being in violation of Minnesota State Law M.S. 169.08.

If convicted, one of my roommates will face a possible fine of $700 and up to 90 days in jail. He will also be furnished with an adult criminal record that will follow him the rest of his life. My other roommate has already pleaded guilty (to protect his brother) and was fined $110.

The "Exit" and "High Voltage" signs were not considered illegal, and tickets were not recieved for their possession. The traffic devices and the "Exit" sign remain in police custody.

We are not thieves. We have kept our parents abreast of the ordeal and they are outraged by it. Everyone who has heard our story is awed by the sheer tactless methods of the University.

Lawyers told us we could beat the charges, but cost is a limiting factor. We are full time engineering students, and don't have time for these matters. If the University would have simply informed us that possession of these items without proof of purchase would cause a problem, I can honestly say we would have disposed of them.

During the ordeal we were treated with no respect. The Police officers looked down on us and treated us like criminals. On their way out of the building they chanted like five-year-olds "Look what we found" to the RA on duty.

We think its sad that the patrons of UMD Housing have to put up with illegal behavior from Housing just because they lack time and money. The whole situation seems unreal, but it happened. We feel it is necessary to inform other Housing residents of this situation, not to justify our situation or to degrade the Housing Department, but to prevent this communist-like act from happening to anyone else.

Sincerely,
Greg Siefert

Health Fair shaping up for UMD!

Mary A. Kettler
Focus Editor

The Third Annual Health Fair is coming to town! Healthy events will pack the Kirby Student Center on Monday and Wednesday next week from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tammy Rendon-Orth, health educator at the UMD Student Health Clinic, has organized the event in coordination with the Student Health Advisory Committee (SHAC) and the Peer Education Program (PEP). They have been busily preparing for the event since September of last year.

According to Orth, these two days were chosen because of the amount of traffic through the Kirby Student Center.

"We feel we can reach the greatest amount of students on these dates," Orth said.

There is a special topic for each day. Monday is Get in the "Spirit." Events include art exhibits, dance demonstrations, massages and relaxation techniques.

The UMD Health Clinic will have a spiritual wellness table with a computer analysis program.

The topic of spirituality was chosen, according to Orth, because many people do not realize that it is a necessity for a healthy lifestyle. Orth also stressed that spirituality is not only a reference to religion, it is finding fulfillment and meaning for your individual lifestyle.

Wednesday will feature "High Level Life." It will provide information for the physical aspect of health. Special features will be Vitamin C testing by the Dental Hygiene program and information on cold weather running.

St. Louis County Health Department will provide a computer cancer assessment.

A popular hit from last year will be returning. This is the electrical impedance body fat testing by St. Luke's Hospital. The test provides a computer printout for the participant with accurate information about their body fat. This is popular for those who weightlift or think they maintain a minimal amount of body fat. There will be a minimal charge for those who participate in the program.

According to Orth, the Duluth Clinic plans to have a breast center. The center will have a fake breast with a lump similar to what women should be looking for when doing self breast examinations.

"A lot of women do the examinations without a clue of what to feel for," Orth said.

Orth feels there is a great amount of enthusiasm for the event. She added that there will be clowns present each day of the fair.

Fitness Inventory Test

Mary Kettler
Focus Editor

An option for those wanting their amount of body fat tested is the Fitness Inventory Test (F.I.T.) program available at UMD. Teri Evenson and Brenda Randall, both senior physical education majors, are in charge of the program, which currently has 40 participants.

The program requires, first, a physical and cholesterol test at the UMD Health Clinic. The F.I.T. instructors then do testing in the physiology lab. A treadmill test measures the maximum oxygen uptake and the maximum heart rate. Next, a skin fold measures the percent body fat in different locations of the body. A muscle strength and endurance and a flexibility test are also given. Individuals participate in a ten-week program with physical activities done on their own time. Then the original tests are done once again and compared to the original results. Evenson and Randall encourage individuals to keep up with their programs.

Anyone who is interested can sign up with Rec Sports.

Anishinabe to kick off Health Fair '88

The Department of Indian Studies at UMD will provide an opening ceremony for the health fair next Monday.

According to Larry P. Aitken, instructor and director of American Indian studies at UMD, when organizations ask them to participate in an event such as the health fair, they like to use the pipe of peace.

The Anishinabe Club will perform the traditional Indian ceremony which usually occurs before an assembly, council meeting or special time of a season.

During the ceremony, a pipe of peace is smoked. The ceremony is designed to generate truth, understanding, courage and bravery.

Anishinabe stands for "spontaneous and genuine human being."

Aitken stressed that the ceremony is not religious, but spiritual so as to create peace with all, regardless of stereotypical prejudices.

The ceremony usually includes five people. The pipe carrier, the eldest respected member in the community, sits in the center of four standing members who represent the directions of north, south, east and west. The pipe carrier represents the earth. The first puff of smoke goes to the creator, the second is given to the earth and the next are given to the directions. Aitken is attempting to locate the oldest pipe carrier in the area, but if no one else is available, he will qualify.

American Indian studies programs have been available in the nation since 1972. Aitken has been at UMD since 1982.

"What most people do not understand is that these programs are not restricted to Indians," Aitken said.

Currently, approximately 100 Indians attend UMD. The majority of students who take Aitken's classes are not Indians.

"Once they take one class, they seem to take another. It's like they get an appetite to learn more of the Indian ways," Aitken said.

A pipe of peace similar to this will kick off the Health Fair at 10 a.m. Monday in Kirby Lounge. The Anishinabe Club will perform the ceremony.

Colorful costumes and stages bring 'Oedipus' to life

E. Vincent Yaroch
Staff Writer

From A Lie of the Mind to Oedipus at Colonus, the versatile UMD Theatre Department makes an artful transition from hard-hitting contemporary realism to Sophocles' second installment in the classic Oedipus trilogy. The first play of the cycle is the well-known Oedipus the King and the third is Antigone, which was performed at UMD five years ago.

Director Nancy Erhard feels that Oedipus at Colonus is the most colorful show she has directed. She hopes to evoke an emotional response to the colors and overall atmosphere of the show. The set and colorful lighting choices stem from the paintings of Maxfield Parrish, whose romantic and dream-like renderings Erhard hopes to capture.

She said that the play's main setting is "very mythical, enchanting, special, and peaceful. It doesn't have to be explained. It's one of those places where you walk into it and you feel it."

The set design was conceived by Wendy Sawvel, and the lighting was designed by Wanda McGuire, both of whom are students at UMD.

Playing another important part of the production is the sound. Student sound designer Neal Jahren has the difficult job of extracting sound from paintings and/or ideas, absorbing references from the play, utilizing natural sounds of the desert environment and finally, abstracting them into surrealistic, dream-like essences.

The costumes blend today's streetwear fashions with multi-level cultural influences with a touch of barbarianism ala The Road Warrior. Guest costume designer from Greensboro, North Carolina, Deborah Bell explained, "Oedipus is a refugee, as well as others. There are also warriors. We looked at pictures of desert people, nomadic tribes, people living in North Africa and the Middle East, and in hostile environments -- people who have to carry their homes with them on their persons. That was kind of an interesting concept to deal with. We went for draping lines and loose clothing that people could move in."

"We also tried to distinguish civilized society from the renegades. All of the civilized people have emblems identifying them in some way with the city -- feathers, yarn work, beads..."

Melissa Beneke and Ron Menzel show off some of the costumes and make-up that will be used in the upcoming play Oedipus at Colonus. The play will be held in the UMD Experimental Theatre from Feb. 2 - 7 at 8 p.m.

Color was also utilized to distinguish characters. The chorus is dressed in green, Oedipus and family in warm, golden tones, and Creon and his gang in darker colors. Bell said that it's a common misconception that the Greeks lived in a world with no color, surrounded only by drab marble and dingy greys. She emphasized the fact that the Greeks were a Middle Eastern people, influenced by the Orient, and were quite colorful, often wearing polka dots and stripes.

Erhard believes costumes act as a second skin for the characters. She wanted the people to be seen for what they are.

Bell offered that Erhard "wanted to emphasize the contrast between the ruggedness of the people and the idyllic surroundings that they find themselves in... in the little grove. The costumes and the people themselves reflect a sense of wandering and struggle. The grove represents a kind of relief for them."

Erhard insists on keeping the characters accessible to the audience. She explained that the characters are "very real and three-dimensional. They're based on mythology, but are real people. They enter into this sanctuary after wandering about in the 'outside world' -- a world that is harsh and barbaric. People now come from that world to Oedipus. I saw it immediately as a very aggressive situation."

The play is performed in the round, which brings the characters very close to the audience. Erhard feels that the closeness allows for accessibility. The elimination of the use of masks is another way to prevent distancing from the audience.

Erhard marvels that although these characters and the people of today are thousands of years apart, "the message we share is the same

Guitarist Billy McLaughlin still pursuing his dream

Kris Vickerman
Staff Writer

Up-and-coming guitarist Billy McLaughlin will perform in MPAC on Monday, Feb. 1, bringing his unique musical style and his meaningful tunes to students at UMD.

Born William Charles McLaughlin, Billy McLaughlin was born in Minneapolis, the seventh of nine children. He attended Washburn High School in South Minneapolis and left for California at age 18. He earned his bachelor of music degree in guitar from the University of Southern California, where he studied with such guitar greats as Christopher Parkening and Lee Ritenour while learning everything about music, ranging from medieval to Bach and Mozart.

Since he was a self-taught guitarist until college,

McLaughlin had to grow up fast on the instrument.

"It was quite a challenge," he comments. "But I think U.S.C. has arguably the finest guitar department in the nation. I was a 4.0 student and graduated with honors because I was really serious about what I was doing." McLaughlin has always wanted to be a musician. Because he comes from such a large family, he wanted something he could do all his own, something for himself.

"I wanted to do this all my life," he says. "The pieces just fell together. I think this is a common aspect in all people, but so many of them just give up. I'm still chasing my dream."

McLaughlin describes his musical style as expressive, moving, easy to listen to, and spiritual in the sense that people can relate to what he's saying.

He says that he is "most concerned with tapping into the individuals in the audience and breaking new ground with my instrument." His music is a combination of new-age jazz, funk, reggae, and progressive pop. He likes the BoDeans, U2, and the Violent Femmes and wants to bring the level of energy into his music that these bands have mastered.

McLaughlin's music has a distinct edge to it, most likely because he strives to write songs that are somewhat vague and open-ended, giving listeners an opportunity to look inside themselves and interpret the words on a personal basis, in relation to their own lives.

"I haven't drawn all the lines for people," says McLaughlin. "I think I have something to say to people that they need to hear, something they don't always hear in other songs. I'm saying 'do what you have to and don't give up,' not just 'go out and get a job.'"

McLaughlin hadn't planned to play the unique style of music he performs now. "I've been a rock 'n' roller all my life," he claims. But he began to experiment with his acoustic guitar and discovered a sound he didn't know existed. He incorporates a tapping-style guitar technique to his music, which was pioneered by Stanley Jordan and Michael Hedges. He and his band are starting to work on a more national basis, focusing on high exposure concerts, such as Riverfest and the Aquatennial this summer.

"This is really a kick-off year for us," McLaughlin declares. "We're hoping to have a CD out by June." They already have 75 bar gigs booked for this year.

McLaughlin's band consists of Scott Fultz on saxophone, Lisa Zenisek on keyboards, Charlie Sauter on bass guitar, and Kirk Johnson on drums. Sauter recently won the Twin Cities Jazz Award for best jazz fusion (rock and jazz) bass player and Johnson will be featured as a dancer in Prince's upcoming tour. Johnson danced in Purple Rain and plays drums for Madhouse, Prince's

At 11:50 a.m. they start appearing. They come alone or in pairs. Occasionally, there is a word of greeting. Early arrivals get a seat, latecomers must stand in the back or at the side. At 12 p.m. there is a hush as students prepare to consume the latest addictive substance to appear on the UMD campus.

And what a strange substance this is. It can be both an upper and a downer. Men and women, freshmen and seniors, no one is immune from this addictive substance.

Perhaps most frightening of all is that many students claim their mothers got them hooked on it.

This substance which is claiming so many of our top students is none other than "Days of Our Lives," a daytime soap opera.

Every weekday at 12 p.m. students gather around the television set on the third floor of Kirby to share in the lives of Patch and Kayla, Kim and Shane, and Roman and Diana.

As the day's episode unfolds, there are moans and gasps. There are groans as Jack (who is married to Kayla) opens the envelope of photographs of Steve and Kayla sharing an amorous kiss.

There are predictions as to the fate of Kimberly's unborn baby, and brief explanations for those who missed the previous day's show.

These people might be science, business, or foreign language majors, but for one hour, anyway, they all speak the same language.

These people seem to adhere to the belief that solidarity is security. They were perfectly willing to answer questions en masse, but became suspicious when asked for individual interviews. Only when assured of anonymity were people willing to open up and share some of their experiences as "Days" addicts.

The people who watch "Days" in Kirby say they watch it there because it's a "hassle to get home between classes," or because their roommates "watch another show at the same time."

However, even if given the chance to watch the show in the privacy of their own homes, most said they would still prefer to watch "Days" in the company of others. One girl said, "It's funny to watch people's reactions."

The group support method is not for all, however.

A few said they usually try to watch "Days" at home, "in case I cry or something."

mitted arranging their schedules around the show. When pressed, most said they would take a 12 p.m. class if they had to, but they usually just "look through the class schedule for other classes."

People with 1 p.m. classes said they often go to the class late, especially on Fridays when the big cliffhangers occur.

A newcomer to the world of soap operas may be surprised at the number of males who make up this group of "Days" addicts. They seemed especially reluctant to talk about their addiction except in terms of complete anonymity.

One male addict said he felt like a "minority" watching "Days." Another said that first he was "embarrassed" to be watching the show, but now "all the guys on my floor watch it."

Most of the males thought they probably saw the show differently than females, but were reluctant to give specifics. Finally, one male commented, "I look at the women (on 'Days') as stupid and naive," a comment which brought groans from the females in the audience.

Unlike the females, most of whom readily admitted they were "hooked" on "Days," the males seemed reluctant to admit their addiction. They claimed that they watched for

Johnny Holm returns to UMD

Brian Pelletier
Arts & Entertainment Editor

One of the most entertaining events at UMD will occur tonight when the Johnny Holm Band performs and 11 singles, two of room.

The Johnny Holm Band has released five albums and 11 singles, two of which have charted nationally. The most recent release was 1985's "Too Poor to Quit."

Known as the "Pied Piper of the Midwest" because of his ability to direct crowds, Holm conducts mass sing-a-longs and turns ordinary people into stars for a night.

Other phenomena known to happen at a Holm concert include the entire audience running outside and back in just to cool off, and singing a from-the-heart version of "Those Were the Days."

The band's repertoire is as diverse as its show. While performing at colleges, the band will play mostly rock & roll, plus its own original and unique music, along with classic rock, country and, yes, even a polka or two.

Any way you look at it, Holm takes his job seriously. His mission: to entertain, not to impress and to let his audience participate, not just watch.

The Johnny Holm band will perform at 8 p.m. in the Kirby Ballroom. Tickets are $3 in advance and $4 at the door.

Out on the town

Brian Pelletier
Arts & Entertainment Editor

The UMD Jazz Ensemble I will perform its winter concert at 8 p.m. tonight in the Marshall Performing Arts Center.

Under the direction of David Schmalenberger, the 17-member group will perform Bob Mintzen's "Dolphin Dance", Tom Kubis' "Theme Without a Movie," and Jazz I trombonist Thomas Matta's arrangement of Starlight's "Stella".

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students at the door.

with highest honors. She has performed as a featured artist and soloist in many cities throughout the United States and Europe.

At Tuesday's program, Markova will perform "Variations in F minor" by Hayden, "Etudes Symphoniques" by Robert Schumann and "Eight Preludes" by Scriabin.

Tickets for the performance are $7 for adults and $3.50 for students, and will be available at the door. A reception will follow the concert at which the audience may meet Ms. Markova.

Author Thomas F. Waters will speak at the Natural Resources Research Institute, 3151 Miller Trunk Highway, at noon on Jan. 28.

Waters' books, which include The Streams and Rivers of Minnesota and his latest, The Superior North Shore, deal with natural and human history of Minnesota, with an emphasis on fisheries. Waters is a professor of fisheries and wildlife at the Twin Cities campus.

The seminar is free and open to the public.

Matinee Musicale has announced its third concert of its guest artist series. Pianist Juliana Markova will be performing on Tuesday, Feb. 2, at 8 p.m. in the Science Building Auditorium at St. Scholastica.

Markova is originally from Bulgaria and studied at the Conservatory in Sofia and in Milan where she graduated

The Artist Lecture Program will continue next Thursday at 1 p.m. when Mason Riddle will give a lecture entitled "Approaching Art: the Critical Process."

Riddle lives in Minneapolis and writes regularly for The New Art Examiner (Chicago) and Stroll Magazine (New York) and serves as a gallery lecturer for the Walker Art Center.

The lecture will be Thursday, Feb. 4 at 1 p.m. in Humanities 314, and is sponsored in part by the Tweed Museum and the UMD Art Department.

The UMD Hockey band will perform in the Kirby Lounge at 1 p.m. on Friday, closing out Winter Carnival Week. Contrary to the rumors, however, the hockey team will not be playing an exhibition game in the Kirby Student Center that day.

Theatre from 11A

-- that humans are still humans."

"Oedipus amazes me," she continued. "The guy has got to be the most down-trodden, beaten man in all of drama, practically. He is really an underdog. He has committed the most horrendous of crimes (marrying his mother unknowingly and fathering his daughters/sisters, Antigone and Ismene) in Oedipus Rex, which he never backed away from. He always admitted that he did the crime. In Oedipus at Colonus, he is able to tell what happened and give his side of the story. He realizes that the gods had decided his fate long ago, teaching him a great lesson. He has chosen not to kill himself, but has blinded himself, wandering the desert for the remainder of his life."

The story goes that Oedipus discovers that where he dies will mean "victory" for that city. He is shown great compassion by the people of the area, and we see the emergence of the civilized human being that was hidden beneath the ragged wanderer. In return for their kindness, he gives them himself -- the greatest gift of all.

Erhard sees Oedipus as "an iceman who comes back to life." He is able to respond. He shows that you don't have to be destroyed. You can go beyond, you can survive and you can maintain your dignity.

The director concludes that the whole production process has been a collaborative effort. From designers to cast and crew, everyone has come together to make Oedipus at Colonus a shining example of what makes UMD Theatre successful. It is working together as a collaborative group to harness creativity, imagination and concentrated effort to produce live theatre at its finest.

Oedipus at Colonus runs from Feb. 2-7 at 8 p.m. in the UMD Experimental Theatre. There is also a matinee on Feb. 7 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for non-UMD students, and $2.50 for UMD students with ID and activity card. Call the theatre box office at 726-8561 for further information. (AGAIN: Reserve early -- the smaller theatre, or "black box," sells out quickly).

Days from 12A

"entertainment" or "something to do in-between classes."

Everyone, males and females, said it's not necessarily easy to get hooked on a soap opera. "You have to ask a lot of questions at first," said one. "You have to be introduced (to the show)," said another.

But once you get started,

This substance which is claiming so many of our top students is none other than "Days of Our Lives."

watch out! It could affect your life in more ways than one. Besides arranging their schedules around the show, many addicts said the show can affect the day that they, themselves, are having.

Many said that an upbeat show can really brighten their day. One girl gave as an example the episode in which Patch and Kayla finally got back together after a long estrangement.

Some said good shows, or shows with cliffhangers, make you "more excited for the next show." Others said that they got especially frustrated or even angry at cliffhangers, most of which occur on Fridays.

Despite the cliffhangers, Friday shows are a favorite, and close behind, Monday resolutions of cliffhangers.

At 1 p.m. the area by the television empties. This is not a slow trickle of people leaving, but rather a mass exodus. In a moment, all is quiet. There is no sign of the drama and tension that has just gone on. The "Days" addicts have gone to carry on with their lives. But be assured that they will be back again to get their daily fix tomorrow.

After all, addictions are hard to break.

McLaughlin from 11A

jazz band, whose video can be seen on BET, a black entertainment network on cable television. The best thing about the band, according to McLaughlin, is that they all really enjoy each other and playing music. The band's attitude is not to project an image; rather, it is just to play music and have a good time.

McLaughlin's favorite part of performing is when people approach him after a concert and say that they never thought someone could put into words the things that they felt or that anyone could feel the same way as they did. His least favorite part is trying to sell someone, such as a music critic, to come see him play.

"It's tough trying to convince people over the phone to come see me. I'd rather just have them hear me play," he says.

McLaughlin plays a little piano and trumpet in addition to guitar, but states that everytime he changes guitar it's like playing a whole new instrument.

"Everytime I tune a new guitar, I have to learn the instrument all over again," he claims.

In the future, McLaughlin sees himself as a kind of musical ambassador to other countries.

"I am really interested in traveling and I would like to be more involved with world events and politics." As with performers like U2, Bob Marley, John Cougar-Mellencamp, and Bruce Springsteen, McLaughlin writes songs that have depth, soul, and meaning to people. If he becomes a national success, McLaughlin believes that he could handle fame and fortune, and that it wouldn't change the feelings he's trying to get across to people or the music he creates. McLaughlin intends to hold onto his vision.

McLaughlin is a sensation definitely worth checking out. He has it all: success, great looks, intelligence, personality and talent. He is professional and yet personable, drawing the audience into his music.

McLaughlin stresses, "You're not going to see another show like this until you see me again."

This will be McLaughlin's first visit to UMD. All of the material he plans to perform will be original, although he may surprise the audience with some fun versions of songs they know. He will be playing on Monday, Feb. 1, at 8:00 p.m. in the Marshall Performing Arts Center. Ticket price is $2 for students and faculty and $4 for general admission.

'Dogs kill Gophers - next target Wildcats

Bret L. Stanley
Sports Writer

The UMD Bulldogs expect to have a wild weekend as they play host to the Northern Michigan Wildcats this Friday and Saturday at the Duluth Arena.

ICE
HOCKEY

UMD is very strong at home this year -- losing only two of the 13 games played in Duluth so far this season.

The Wildcats have not beaten the Bulldogs at the arena since posting a 5-4 decision on Jan. 25, 1985, and have only posted one win ever on Bulldog turf.

The Bulldogs dropped both games against the Wildcats earlier this season (Oct. 16-17) 8-4 and 3-2 in Northern Michigan.

A highlight in between the first and second periods at this weekend's Friday night game will feature the retirement of former All-American Keith "Huffer" Christiansen's number 9 jersey.

The Bulldogs split last weekend's series with the Minnesota Golden Gophers, dropping the first game in overtime 6-5 and springing back to sink the Gophers on Saturday night 2-1.

The win on Saturday night posted the Bulldogs first victory over Minnesota since handing them a 5-2 loss on Oct. 25, 1985 at the Duluth Arena.

Friday night the Gophers charged back from a three-goal deficit after trailing the Bulldogs 5-2 late in the third period.

UMD dominated play

throughout the second period, scoring four goals.

The Minnesota comeback didn't start until 11:27 of the third period when Jason Miller lit the fire and made it a 5-3 game. Lance Werness backhanded in a light shot from in front for the Gophers, and Jay Cates got the tally that sent the game into overtime with less than 2:30 left to play.

Dean Williamson put in the game winner 5:38 into the overtime. Williamson was playing for the Gophers' injured leading scorer, Peter Hankinson.

The Bulldogs had the first chance to score in the overtime when Barry Chyzowski broke in alone, but Gopher goalie Robb Stauber, who was far out of his net, turned the shot away.

The early lead went to Minnesota as Miller put it in the net at 1:11 of the first period on a two-on-one break away with Scott Bloom.

Jerry Chumola tied it up for the 'Dogs on the power play at 13:32 of the first period on a set-up pass from Greg Andrusak.

Grant Bischoff put the Gophers back on top with a perfect three player set-up that went from Williamson, who passed back to the point man Frank Gersich, who then tossed it to the left of the net to Bischoff, who laid it in the net.

Bob Alexander, who was named co-WCHA Player of the Week, tied the game 29 seconds into the second period on a shot that hit Stauber's stick and slid behind him into the net.

Sandy Smith put the 'Dogs ahead 3-2 less than three minutes later on the power play, and Chris Lindberg widened the margin netting a feed pass from Dennis Vaske.

Alexander scored his second goal of the night to give the Bulldogs three power play goals in the game.

Saturday's game wasn't as wide open as the night before.

The Minnesota Gophers were helpless against the constant pressure put on by the win-hungry Bulldogs. UMD split the weekend series with the WCHA-leading Gophers, losing 6-5 Friday and posting a 2-1 victory Saturday.

Tuesday night wrestling fans watched their conference champion Bulldogs thrash rival UW-Superior in UMD's final home meet of the season.

WRESTLING

The contest was never close. The 'Dogs jumped out to a 25-3 lead and never looked back as they went on to win 36-11.

The meet also marked the final home appearance of senior captain Jeff Dravis. As a Bulldog, the two-time All-American had compiled a record of 89-25-1. His 52 pins are just four short of the school record held by his brother Blaine, who is a UMD assistant wrestling coach.

Dravis' 52nd pin came against UW-Superior's Dan Lickness and was one of four pins that the 'Dogs recorded Tuesday night.

The other three came from 126-pound junior Brian Laine, 158-pound junior Jim Lelwica and heavyweight freshman Pete Semington.

Todd Guillaume, Trevor

Lundgren and Brad Simon all won decisions, and Ted Hennen tied his opponent in the 190-pound match to boost the 'Dogs to a 9-3-1 record.

Last weekend the Bulldogs earned the title of NIC dual meet champions by winning all four of their matches at the conference duals in Moorhead.

"It was a weekend to be proud of," exclaimed coach Neil Ladsten. "We wrestled with a lot of intensity and I couldn't be happier with the way the guys performed."

On Friday, UMD beat fourth-place finisher Northern State 26-9 and followed that with a close 22-18 win over University of Minnesota-Morris, who finished third.

On Saturday, the 'Dogs edged out out runner-up Southwest State 23-15 and then hammered Moorhead State 44-0.

"I can't remember the last time we shut someone out like that," Ladsten said. "It was a weekend for great individual efforts."

most of a 73-66 non-conference road loss to UW-Parkside.

The loss drops UMD to 15-5 overall, while Parkside improved to 10-10 on the season.

The 'Dogs were with in striking range at 46-50 with ten minutes to play in the second half, but Parkside went on a 10-2 run increasing their lead to a 12 point 60-48 margin.

The Bulldogs rallied on a 9-2 run to draw close once again at 57-62 but Parkside countered with a six point run of their own to maintain a comfortable 68-57 lead with just over three minutes to play.

UMD was forced to foul down the stretch and had a brief moment of hope when Victor Harvison hit a three-point shot to draw the cagers within 64-71 with under a minute to play, but the 'Dogs failed to capitalize on other late opportunities and fell in a 73-66 defeat.

UMD trailed throughout the first half, except for a brief 5-4 lead on a three-point shot by Tod Kowalczyk, and the 'Dogs defense couldn't control Parkside forward Roderik Wade, as he scored 18 first half points enroute to leading the Rangers to a 37-28 margin at the intermission.

Harvison lead the Bulldogs with 17 points, while Thompson chipped 13 points and Jim Olson added 10 points.

Wade led all scorers with 24 points, 18 points in the first half, while Michael Henderson added 18, 11 points in the second half for Parkside.

The Bulldogs defeated Parkside earlier this year in the championship game of the American Family Insurance Classic 77-69 and the two teams have 2-2 lifetime record, with UMD losing both times on the road.

The Bulldogs had won nine of their last ten games and with this loss the Bulldogs end their non-conference schedule with a 9-5 mark.

The Bulldogs will make their way back home this weekend, as Bemidji State makes it's way to the Romano Gymnasium for a 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon contest with the 'Dogs.

Bemidji, 9-10 overall and 2-3 in the NIC, is lead by David Lee and David Muelken, averaging over 25 and 18 points respectively in NIC competition.

A clash of styles will meet, as Bemidji features the conferences top scoring offense averaging just over 86 point a game, while UMD is the leagues top defensive team, giving up a little over 63 points to opponents.

day, Jan. 30, in the UMD Fieldhouse at 3:30 p.m.

Bemidji State University, Michigan Tech and the University of Wisconsin-Superior will all be pitting their best against the UMD teams.

The UMD women, as reigning champions, will try to keep their crown, and the men's team will attempt to dethrone Michigan Tech, who was last year's victor.

Head coach Eleanor Rynda said it is too early in the season to tell how the team will perform.

"Our distance core is strong in the men's team, and our mile and 4x1 lap relays look really good. We are still growing and developing," Rynda said.

Steve Tekippe is this year's men's team captain, and Lynn Stottler and Barb Sommer are the women's co-captains. Stottler, who was sidelined earlier in the cross country season because of an injury, is expected to compete this weekend.

Both teams took to the road last weekend to compete in the Northwest Open in Minneapolis.

There were no official scores kept, but the competition gave the UMD track teams an opportunity to run against some Division I teams from Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Rynda said her teams did well against the big teams.

"We were about where we had hoped we would be. I think that it gave them a lot of confidence in their ability and an eye view as to how much farther an athlete can go in the collegiate ranks."

Lady hoopsters look to improve NSC record

The UMD women's basketball team will once again face

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

the mighty Cougars from Morris and the firebreathing Dragons from Moorhead State this weekend.

Both games will be played in the Romano Gymnasium, and the Dragons and the Cougars are looking for a win.

Two weeks ago, the lady Bulldogs traveled to the home courts of the opposing teams and pulled away two victories. (Moorhead State 75-62 and UM-Morris 70-59)

Now with a record of 4-2 in the Northern Sun Conference, the Bulldogs are looking to improve, but the road to victory is a rough one.

The Cougars enter Friday night's game with an overall record of 4-9 and are without a victory in the NSC at 0-4.

According to UMD head coach Karen Stromme, UM-Morris is "one of the better teams in the conference. They have a few scrappy, enthusiastic players that don't quit, and that makes them dangerous. They stand on their own, and they are a good team."

Although the Bulldogs go into every game with great concentration, Stromme had a few positive things to say about the upcoming weekend.

"It is always nice to have the home court. That is always somewhat of an advantage, but on the same point, we went down there (Morris) and played well on their court. We are in our glory now at home because we haven't been here for a long time. I'm looking forward to having the right things happen."

On Saturday, the Bulldogs will face the Dragons, who are also without a win in the Northern Sun Conference at 0-4.

"I think their problem is in their early record. They are having a problem picking up the momentum."

The Bulldogs, who seem to have no trouble with their momentum, pulled off a victory last weekend against Winona State with high scoring Dina Kangas picking up 12 points.

Also scoring high on the Bulldogs' list were Denise Holm and Jennifer Koll -- both getting 10 points.

"Koll has to be our best one-on-one player," Stromme said. "She also has the best moves on the team when it comes to getting to the basket."

Kay Happke had nine rebounds to lead the Bulldogs to a 90-57 victory, and as a freshman on the team, Stromme commented on her playing.

"She is an aggressive player. She hits the boards tough, and there is nobody on the team that can rebound with her tenacity."

"If you look at the fact that our top scorer had 12 points, it doesn't look fantastic," Stromme said of the game

Looking back a week, the Bulldogs took a tough loss to Bemidji State University 69-62.

"We couldn't have played harder," Stromme said. "We made some mistakes, there were some turnovers and some shots just didn't fall in at the end of the game. But you can't ask more of a team than to play really hard, and they did."

Stromme continued to comment that the intensity of the game between the Bulldogs and the Beavers was one of the best college games she has seen.

"It is tough to play on the Bemidji court. All I have to say is that now they have to come and play us at our home," Stromme said. "Overall, I was very proud of our team that night. It was a difficult and emotional loss, but that's because they gave it their all."

The Bulldogs will continue to give each game "their all" as they head into this weekend's play, and as they start to near the end of the season. Game times for this weekend are 7:30 on Friday night and 5:30 on Saturday.

Bulldog Notes: Freshman forward Kelli Rizer leads the Northern Sun Conference in three point shooting percentage, 20 of 71 -- .375. She also leads the Bulldogs in scoring (13.0 ppg) and free throw percentage (.759), and is second in rebounding with 7.4 rebounds per game.

against Winona. "But if you look again, three of the players scored in the double digits, so from that aspect it's good."

The key to the Bulldogs' success this year has been the fact that Stromme can't pick a most valuable player.

"We have kids that go out there and are strong all the way around. We played extremely well at Winona," Stromme continued. "The continuity was amazing. You could never tell when a sub went in or out because the continuity of the game never changed. That's something that we have worked on all

A tight defense and aggressive forechecking held the Gophers to only 21 shots on goal.

On the other end of the ice, Stauber had 33 saves for the Gophers, and his performance in the net was the key factor in keeping the score from getting out of hand.

Frank Gersich had the only goal of the first period to put the Gophers up 1-0.

UMD tied the game on the power play 52 seconds into the second period when Alexander picked up a Minnesota clearing pass and sent it cross-ice to Chyzowski. Chyzowski centered, and Smith was right in the slot to dump it in.

Scott Keller got the game winner 28 seconds before the second period ended as the Gophers changed lines.

John Hyduke left the net and slid a breakout pass to Mike DeAngelis who relayed to Alexander. Alexander took a shot, and the rebound came out to DeAngelis who was trailing the play. DeAngelis ripped a shot toward the open net, and Keller tipped it in.

UMD also killed off all five of their penalties to render Minnesota's power play useless.

Going to Daytona, Florida for Spring Break? Represent UMD in a National Sports Festival

Linda M. Keppers
Sports Editor

If you don't know what the National College Sports Festival is all about -- that's okay -- because you are about to become one of the many who wouldn't miss it for anything in the world.

The NCSF, an event with intramural athletes from colleges and universities around the nation, has quickly grown to be the largest multi-sports event in the United States.

The week long schedule of 17 events takes place during the "spring break" season in Daytona Beach, Fla., and the winners are invited back in the fall for the finals of this national championship of college sports. The winners fly back to Daytona absolutely free via American Airlines.

So, that sounds interesting, but why should you make a point not to be anywhere else for spring break? Because you could be the one to make the difference in whether or not your college team takes home the trophy. You see, no scholarship athletes are allowed to compete, and that makes a difference.

Everyone goes to Daytona for all the fun in the sun that can be crammed into a week or two. In fact, Daytona has the greatest number of visitors during spring break than any other city in the United States. So when you add the fun and competition of events like ultimate frisbee, flag football or maybe rugby, to name a few, to your break, then you are talking about a kind of spring break you can't find anywhere else in the country, or for that matter, the world.

The following sports are included in the Sports Festival: Softball: Each team is allowed a 15-player roster with not more than 10 players to be on the field at any one time. The tournament runs on a double elimination/round robin format.

Basketball: This will be played in Daytona's finest outdoor facility. Each team is allowed a maximum of 10 players on its roster and must start with five players.

Cycling: Compete in the two mile sprints on the sun-baked, hard-packed shores of Daytona Beach. The NCSF will provide all the bicycles. Any others must be approved by the NCSF. All racers must be appropriately attired.

Ultimate Frisbee: A team may have 15 or seven players on the field to start. He or she may wear any aids as long as they don't endanger other players (includes rubber cleats). A goal (one point) is scored when an offensive player has two feet in the end zone after receiving a pass from a teammate. Running into the end zone with possession does not score any points. The game is one hour, and 13 points scored wins.

Swimming: Events include 50 meter and 100 meter free-style and a 200-meter free-style relay. Cutoffs are not allowed.

Tennis: A double elimination/round robin type format for the tournament will revert to single elimination with quarterfinals, semifinals and finals. The final match consists of a best two out of three sets. Only USTA approved racquets and equipment will be allowed. NCAA scoring system will be used.

Golf: The Daytona Beach Country Club will be the site of the competition for the 36 hole tournament.

Volleyball: On the beach is best, and that's exactly where you will find the volleyball tournament. Each team will be allowed a six-player roster, with four players allowed on the court at any one time. Each game is a best two out of three matches which are won by 11 points with a winning margin of at least two points. The tournament is run on double elimination/round robin type format.

Running(5K): There is both a men's and women's competition, so get ready to run. All 5-kilometer races will be on the beach.

Weightlifting: The competition has nine weight categories from 11.5 pounds up to heavyweight. Hooking is permitted, lifts from the "hang" are not. A lifter is allowed three lifts and may take any one of his lifts during the weight progression.

USMC Fitness Course: For the greatest athletic challenge of your life, try this. From running and jumping to climbing and hurdling, absolutely no test of endurance, strength or determination is left out.

New Sports include: arm wrestling, aerobics, tug-of-war, soccer, flag football and rugby.

UMD students who are interested in this type of sporting competition can pick up an application for more information in the STATESMAN office, KSC 118. Ask for Linda.

last eight meetings between the two teams and lead the all-time series 52-23.

Last weekend, the Bulldogs improved to 15-4 overall and 5-0 in the NIC with an impressive 82-65 with over Winona State.

UMD lead throughout the first half, opening their largest margin at 28-14 with 11:42 to play in the first half and carried a 42-33 lead to the locker room.

Winona closed the gap early in the second half, as they outscored the 'Dogs 10-3 to draw within 43-46, but the cagers drew slowly away as senior David Thompson scored 15 of his season high 26 points throughout the rest of the half to pace the Bulldogs to a 82-65 victory.

Top NIC scorer Carter Glad was held to 13 points, 13 below his conference average, by senior forward Jim Olson, who chipped in 15 points and 10 rebounds in the victory. Tod Kowalczyk also added 15 points.

Schach's Fireside Chat

Steve Schach
Rec Sports Editor

Sid Hartman, the legendary sports columnist for the Twin Cities StarTribune, said it Sunday morning on his radio program: Any team that goes into the Duluth Arena to play against the Bulldogs is automatically an underdog.

He said the ruckus that the fans make here reminds him of the noise Twins fans made last fall. He couldn't believe the support the city and the university give to the hockey team.

That has got to get you pumped. If Mr. Hartman gets excited over that, then so do I.

With a heart-wrenching near victory Friday night, and a heart-stopping victory Saturday night against the mighty Gophers, the UMD hockey team is now in fifth place in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association -- only one point out of fourth and two points away from third. That is so important because a fourth place finish in the WCHA is just as good as a first place finish when it comes down to the WCHA Tournament.

With the new playoff format, the top four teams in the standings will host the bottom four teams in the first round of the WCHA tournament. According to Mr. Hartman (and the Bulldogs impressive home record of 10-2-1) UMD should be able to win two out of three at home if they play against, say, Michigan Tech, currently in fourth place.

After the first round, the final four teams travel to the neutral ice of the St. Paul Civic Center. True, the Minnesota Gophers aren't exactly going on a long eastern road trip, but it won't be the same as playing at Mariucci Arena. The Bulldogs will have as good a shot as any of the remaining four teams of winning the WCHA tournament, which would automatically give the Bulldogs a bye to the round of eight in the twelve-team NCAA College Hockey Tournament in Lake Placid, NY.

It is not absolutely necessary for UMD to win the WCHA Tournament on March 7 to qualify for the NCAA's, but it would be the surest route. The four major college hockey conferences (the WCHA, the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, the Central Collegiate Hockey Association, and Hockey East) each receive automatic spots at Lake Placid, going to each conference's tournament champion. The final eight teams will be selected on an 'at-large' basis by an NCAA selection committee.

Currently, the various hockey polls throughout the country, which give us some hints as to what teams will be selected, do not have the Bulldogs in the top 12, which could become a prerequisite to receive an 'at-large' berth.

The Bulldogs play Northern Michigan here this weekend (sweep), and then go to Michigan Tech for what will be a big series in deciding WCHA home ice. One of the season-making series will follow that next weekend when Wisconsin comes to town. That weekend could shape up to be the battle for second place, and the second place team in the WCHA will definitely make the top 12 in the nation.

The NCAA Championship take place March 31-April 2, so don't wait until the last minute to get tickets.

Extra

Duluth Arena ranks third in the WCHA in average attendance with 4,993 per game. The top two in attendance are the two Big Ten schools, Wisconsin (8,480) and Minnesota (6,832)

...The men's basketball team was ranked second in the nation for NAIA schools in team defense, giving up an average of 59.2 points per game.

Powers from 1B

of NIC Wrestler of the Week for his four wins at Moorhead.

Ladsten was especially proud of Jeff Dravis who in his first match of the weekend against Northern State, was thrown down, injuring his shoulder and arm. Dravis was trailing 5-0 at the time of the injury.

"We used up all of the injury time," Ladsten recalled. "Northern State expected Jeff to forfeit, but instead he went on with the match using one arm and ended up winning 10-6. That was really a turning point in the match, and it carried over to the rest of the weekend."

Scott Swanson replaced Dravis in the following match against Morris.

"Scott came in and won a match for us," Ladsten said. "That was a great effort, and without it, Morris could have beaten us."

Ted Hennen was the leading point getter for the team with 18. Briane Laine, Steve Hoard, Brad Simon and Todd Guillaume each won three of their four matches.

The grappler's next action will be the Wisconsin-Eau Claire Invitational Feb. 6. That tournament could see the return of last year's national champion Mike Hirschey who has been sidelined with a nerve injury.

UMD retires Huffer Christiansen's jersey

Sports Release

It's been nearly 21 years since Keith "Huffer" Christiansen last put on the jersey of his UMD hockey uniform. On Jan. 29, that jersey, and the familiar number 9 that adorned it, will be officially retired by the UMD Department of Intercollegiate Athletics in a special ceremony between the first and second periods of the UMD vs. Northern Michigan University game.

"In a sense, Huffer's jersey has been retired for the past 21 years -- no Bulldog has worn number 9 since he left," said UMD Director of Intercollegiate Athletics Bruce McLeod, who was a teammate of Christiansen's for two seasons (1965-67). "But we felt it was time for us to recognize Huffer in an official capacity for what he has done and meant to UMD athletics in general and to hockey in particular. By hanging his jersey in the Duluth Arena, we believe there will be a lasting tribute to a person who contributed so much to Bulldog hockey."

Christiansen, who paced UMD in scoring all four of his years as a Bulldog, earned both All-American and All-Western Collegiate Hockey Association honors, and was named the WCHA's Most Valuable Player in 1966-67 after racking up 23 goals and 39 assists for 62 points in 28 games. That same year he topped the WCHA in scoring with 46 points on 15 goals 31 assists.

A native of Fort Frances, Ontario, who attended International Falls High School, Christiansen concluded his Bulldog career with 75 goals and 121 assists for 196 points. While that total ranks sixth on the UMD scoring charts, Christiansen's points per game average (1.92) is second only to 1985 Hobey Baker Award winner Bill Watson (1.96).

Following his graduation from UMD in 1967, Christiansen went on to captain the silver medal-winning U.S. Team at the 1972 Olympic Games. Christiansen also skated for two seasons with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the now-defunct World Hockey Association.

Christiansen's jersey, incidentally, is the only one retired by UMD in any sport.

Raymond heads for the Rocky Mountains

Steve Schach
Rec Sports Editor

What kind of a day is Rod Raymond expecting Saturday to be?

Tough.

Raymond will be competing in one of the toughest one-day winter events in the world: The Coors Light Mountain Man Triathlon held near Beaver Creek, Colo. These mountain men (approximately 500) must cross-country ski for 24 miles, then run 10 miles on snowshoes and finish by speed skating another 12 miles.

Coming from the low altitudes of Duluth to the rail-thin atmosphere of the Rocky Mountains, the triathlon will be that much more difficult.

"I'm nervous about the altitude because I won't be acclimated to it," Raymond said. "To get fully acclimated, you would have to be at that altitude for a minimum of two or three weeks."

Raymond, who left yesterday (Wednesday) for the Saturday event, added, "If you can't get fully acclimated, the best thing to do is to go cold turkey by arriving only a couple of days early. That way, the altitude sickness you may acquire, which occurs after about four or five days, won't affect you."

The Mountain Man Triathlon was shown on NBC-TV last year and will be shown this year in a few months by ESPN.

Raymond's forte will be in the skiing and the speed skating, which will be done on a plowed lake. He has had ample opportunity to cross-country ski in Duluth, and he has played hockey since he was four-years-old. Racing on snowshoes is new to Raymond.

"After the big snowfall we had earlier, I went out and just ran around on the snow. It was cool," he said.

Cost is a big factor as racers have to pay the initial $100 entry fee plus airfare, hotel accommodations, food, etc. Expenses are being handled through the support of sponsors Ski Hut, UMD Rec Sports and the Irving Community Center.

Raymond is unique in that he will be the only student participating from out of town. Many professionals will be competing in this race.

Before school started this fall, Raymond traveled to Lake Tahoe, Nev. for a triathlon that will be shown on NBC's "Sports World" this March. After two miles of swimming in water as cold as Lake Superior (it was mandatory to wear a full body swimsuit), then 200 miles of biking through the Sierra-Madre Mountains (including 20-mile, no plateau, Luther Pass) and ending with 20 miles of running on a terrain similar to "...a paved Chester Creek without water," Raymond finished 9th out of 280.

"I even got interviewed by NBC," he said.

Last year, Raymond competed in the Bud Light Ironman Competition in Hawaii as well as in many other smaller events.

How does he do it?

"I've been training three to four hours a day for the past two years, and now for the Mountain Man, I've just been intensifying the practices," he explained. "I've never really thought about quitting during the middle of a race -- even going up that Luther Pass, which was like biking up Mesaba Avenue for 20 miles with no level spots. I have always come back to UMD saying that I finished. I can't come back and say I quit."

"Honestly," he continued, "the day I quit practicing will be the day I stop having fun doing this."

Fun? Riding a bike straight up a mountain pass, after swimming in ice two miles and almost a marathon ahead, is fun?

Yes.

"I can't express the thrill you get when you cross the finish line after racing for 10 hours. I get the image of that line, and that's all that matters. You forget about the pain," the mountain man said.

As for this Saturday, "I don't know how well I'll do there. I don't know anything about the competition -- I've never done this type of race before, and the altitude may affect me. I really can't make a prediction," Raymond said.

Whether he finishes this race or not, UMD is going to be proud of our representative when he gets back.

The Intramural Ticker

Basketball

The pregame hype predicted it would be the best basketball game played in the new Romano Gym so far. It was close. Last Thursday, H.b.'s pulled off a 56-51 win over We're Ugly but We're Good. Wayne Preston and Jim Malosky Jr. each scored 20 points for H.b.'s and Steve Geels led the Ugly team with 20.

The Rodney Dangerfield team in intramural basketball is ESAD (Class A, 4-0-1). Power forward Don St. Ores and speedy guard Chris Smith lead this team that doesn't get any respect. Last week they beat Swisher Sweets (the 3-3 Swisher Sweets, not the 5-0 Swisher Sweets) 43-33.

Tonight at 7:15 p.m., pride is at stake as the winless teams Quorum Black and the Raisins hammer it out in what the pregame hype is predicting to be 'quite the game.' In other AA games, tonight HB's Bearcats (3-0-1) take on the Airballs (2-2) at 6:15 p.m. and Dr. Vaseline (1-3) takes on Twine State (1-2-1) at 7:15

It's going to be a big weekend

Lisa Konn
Staff Writer

It is a big weekend for tournaments in Rec Sports. The infamous Silverbroom Broomball Tournament, the Schick 3-on-3 Super Hoops Basketball Tournament and the Table Tennis Tournament will break up the winter blues as a part of the UMD Winter Carnival.

In the past, the Silverbroom, scheduled for Friday, Jan. 29 through Sunday, Jan. 31, has been a vying battle for the best. The tournament is open to all men's, women's and co-rec teams with valid participation eligibility. Sixteen teams in each category will be guaranteed two fun-filled games.

A mandatory captain's meeting for all participating teams will be held today at 4:00 p.m. in SpHC 9A.

The champion team will receive a prize, compliments of the Bulldog Shop, and a $30 Godfathers gift certificate. The name of the champion team for the 1988 Silverbroom Broomball Tournament will be engraved on the Silverbroom trophy (Yes, it is really a silver broom) that is displayed in the Rec Sports trophy case.

Another event scheduled this weekend is the Schick 3-on-3 Super Hoops Basketball Tournament. This tournament will run the same dates as the Silverbroom, and it will be held in the Romano Gymnasium.

Competition is offered in men's and women's three person teams. It is a different game, with two fewer players.

All captains must also attend the meeting today 4:00 p.m. in SpHC 9A.

Schick will provide prizes such as razors and other Schick products. The champions will also be invited to a regional Schick Super Hoops Festival. Schick will provide accommodations for the festi-

weekend to 10B

p.m. In Class A, the 5-0 I Felt a Thigh plays Sub Lingen (1-4) at 8:15 p.m. tonight, and you may want to wait around for a barnburner at 10:15 p.m., when ESAD (4-0-1) plays the Jammin Meds (5-0).

Next Tuesday night at 8:15 p.m., the Bearcats will collide with We're Ugly but We're Good.

The two H.B.'s teams, the Bearcats and H.b.'s, don't play each other in the regular season.

Broomball

The bad guys of broomball, the Bearded Clams (also known as BCN), are undefeated in men's AA competition. Their 3-0 record includes victories over last year's runner-up Paradise, last year's champion the Nicks, and a recent victory over Buster H----. Wanting everybody on the team to be recognized as a bad guy, team president mentioned Jeff Chernivec, Shaun Nelson, Joe Huth, Lonnie Wanovich, and Mark Joyce as people worth mentioning. Next Wednesday they take on the 2-1 Broomballers.

Strong goaltending by John Brugler was the key in Label X's 4-3 victory over the slumping Paradise (1-2).

In a battle of undefeated teams on Saturday, Naturally Brewed (2-0) beat Spearmint Gum 4-1.

The Kaboshers (2-0-1) completed a weekend sweep by beating the Dweebs 4-2 on Sunday, less than 24 hours after they had beaten Club Tropicana.

Chicks Bediggin It is the only other AA men's team which is undefeated, with a record of 1-0-1.

In Class A competition, next Wednesday features the Blue Fox Lounge (3-0) battling the Running Rebbles (also 3-0) at 8:30 p.m.

Last night, the Slugs took on Psychotic Reactions in another Class A battle of undefeated teams.

Other 2-0 teams in Class A include There is a God, the Broomsmen, and Super Uglys in Mankato. Alpha Nu Omega has a perfect 3-0 mark.

In co-ed broomball, next Monday's game at 3:30 p.m. matches the 3-0 Wang Dang Sweet against the 3-0 Who Stole the Tap? (The women on Tap, by the way, recently won the prestigious Kegathon, but they cheated).

There's still way too many undefeated teams to seriously write a lot about each individual team. The rest of the co-ed unbeaten teams include: Cyclo Rings (2-0 in Class AA), after beating the Nicks & Chicks Saturday; Suckenbloie (3-0 in A); the Snoozers (2-0); In and Out Urge (2-0); Munich 1383 (2-0); Purgatory (3-0); the Antis (2-0); and C-bomb (2-0).

Volleyball

Kurt Fuchs and Tony Pearson seem to have made a mistake when filling out their roster for men's volleyball -- they just wrote down their two names. That's no mistake. They don't need anybody else. Playing in Class AA division, 2 Cocky has a record of 3-0-1.

Not to be outdone, Brian Cress, Dan Margo, Joe Kapla, and Mark Frye are also 3-0-1 playing for Tenesmus. The blemish on both team records were at the hands of, you guessed it, each other.

Perennial Waste is the only other men's team that hasn't lost yet.

In Co-ed, Relaxin hasn't lost since the recordkeeping started. The 4-0 team consists of Margo, Fuchs, Cress, Pearson, Marilyn Olson, Kim Heydon, Ann Martin, Teri Johnson, and John Krenz.

Hockey

Previously undefeated,

Slow and Easy (3-1-1) suffered its first loss when Sugar Magnolia (3-1-1) beat them Tuesday night, 3-1.

Le Club (3-0-1), playing without a goalie, squeaked by the Kaboshers, 15-1.

Tonight: Fullhouse (1-1-1) vs. Big Shooters (0-3) at 7:45 p.m., the Hanson Brothers (2-1) at Jam Transfer (2-0) at 9 p.m., and Paradise (2-0-1) at the Barley Boys (0-3) at 10:15 p.m.

In Class A, Black Sheep (4-0) takes on the Iceholes (3-0) next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Hockey teams say they enjoy the new, bigger ice rink.

The Veteran Supervisor: Matt Olson

Lisa Konn
Staff Writer

It is time to meet another Rec Sports Supervisor: Matt Olson.

Olson is a Winter Quarter graduating senior who will be getting degrees in economics and history. This supervisor is hometown bred since he graduated right here in Duluth from East High School where he was actively involved in soccer and basketball.

Olson has been with Rec Sports for five years, and for the last two, he has held the position of supervisor. His experience shows that he is a worthy recipient of the position.

Along with all of his other supervisory duties, Olson is responsible for coordinating the maintenance of all Rec Sports equipment. He is in charge of the inventory, check-out, storage and purchase of new equipment.

The years of experience that Olson has in Rec Sports sometimes gives him an advantage as supervisor.

His freshman year, Olson started as a soccer and hockey official. Later, he worked his way up to a clerical position. Olson thinks this experience definitely helps him as a supervisor. He got to know all of the interdependent facets of the department, and now he can see things from both sides.

According to Olson, Rec Sports is "more than one thing for many different individuals." It stands as a healthy outlet for stress, competitive feelings and fun exercise.

"It is an intricate part of student life that a lot of people need," Olson said.

He is also sure that Rec Sports provides something that no other organization can provide.

There are many people who are not interested in a competitive sport, and a variety of individual activities exist for them. For example, for those interested in a good regular tennis opponent, Olson believes a round robin casual schedule could be set up to pair people.

"We could find others who are interested, set up a match and reserve court time," he said. "Rec Sports exists in the university system to serve the needs of the students."

When asked about his opinion on the forfeit rule, Olson said "It's tough to make a rule."

He feels that a team who does not show up is penalizing the other team members.

"The other team wants to play. They're up for it and you've made a commitment."

He also added that the officials still need to be paid in the case of the forfeit. Olson feels that the forfeit rule should stand as is stated in the Rec Sports Handbook.

Matt is most excited about the new gymnasium.

It is going to "shape up Intramurals and all of the Rec Sports programs," he said.

He feels the new facilities make everyone happier to be there, and that it will increase participation.

"Look at the weightroom, for example. It's as nice as anywhere you'd pay $30 or more a month to be a member."

In the future, Matt plans to look for work in the business world -- probably business and finance. Eventually, he would like to go to graduate school. Right now he is thinking about Indiana University where he would like to earn his degree in recreation. Olson has been a very valuable asset to the Rec Sports program. Good luck to you, Matt, in your life after graduation -- and congratulations.

val.

The third tournament coming up is the Table Tennis Tournament. Competition is offered in men's, women's, co-rec singles and doubles. The matches will be scheduled for the week of Feb. 1-5. A mandatory captains meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 1 at 4p.m. in SpHC 9A.

In another area, the Lady Bulldogs Hockey team is scheduled to play Buffalo, Minn. on Saturday, Jan. 30 at 5p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 31 at 12p.m. at the Sports and Health Center.

These games, along with the previous games of the last two weeks, are also held in conjunction with the Third Annual First Bank Duluth Winter Sports Festival.

If you're ready to rock & roll, this offer is sure to open your eyes—choose any 12 of the hottest sounds around for only a penny, from current to classics.

Simply fill in and mail the application together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's 12 selections for only a penny, plus $1.85 to cover shipping and handling). Outrageous! In exchange, you agree to buy 8 more tapes or records (at regular Club prices) in the next 3 years. Only 8 selections and you can take up to 3 years to buy them. That's all there is to it—and you may cancel membership anytime after doing so.

How the Club works: every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for whichever kind of music you're into...plus hundreds of alternatives from every field of music. Today's biggest hard rocking hits to rock's softer side. Plus your favorite rock classics, pop's newest sensations, and much more! Up to 6 times a year you may also receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular Club prices, for a total of up to 19 buying opportunities.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you don't have to do anything—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, just fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified. You will always have at least 10 days to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days to decide, you may return it at our expense.

The tapes and records you order during your membership will be billed at regular Club prices, which currently are $7.98 to $9.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multi-unit sets, special and classical selections may be somewhat higher.) And if you continue as a member after completing your enrollment agreement, you'll be eligible for our "buy one—get one free" bonus plan.

CDs and videocassettes also available to Club members. Each issue of the music magazine contains a wide selection of the latest hits and old favorites on Compact Discs. In addition, from time to time, videocassettes are also available. And best of all, the CDs or videocassettes you purchase as a Club member will count toward fulfillment of your membership obligation.

10-Day Risk-Free Trial: we'll send details of the Club's operation with your introductory shipment. If you are not satisfied for any reason whatsoever, just return everything within 10 days for a full refund and you will have no further obligation. Get in on it today.

Order your first selection now at a big discount and get 2 extra albums FREE! Can this offer get any better? Believe it! If you wish, you may also pick out your first selection right now and it's yours for as much as 60% off regular Club prices—only $3.98. Enclose payment now and you'll receive it with your 12 introductory albums. This discount purchase immediately reduces your membership obligation—you then need buy just 7 more selections (instead of 8) at regular Club prices in the next 3 years. What's more, this discount purchase also entitles you to still 2 more hit albums as a bonus, FREE! Just check the box in the application and fill in numbers of your first selection and 2 free bonus albums!

COLLEGE CREDIT

WITH CITIBANK'S SPECIAL COLLEGE PROGRAM

A Citibank MasterCard® or Visa card is a great way to get some extra credit.

And fulfilling the prerequisites is a snap. To apply, just complete and mail the attached application along with a photocopy of your validated College I.D. Here's what your card can do for you...

On campus, you can use your card for books, supplies, and clothing. Even to register for a class. And every time you do, you'll earn valuable CitiDollar$® for guaranteed savings on brand-name merchandise.

On the go, you can get cash advances up to $300 at over 18,000 cash machines nationwide and in Canada and at over 110,000 banks worldwide. And you can repay cash advances or purchases in full or in convenient monthly payments.

On the road, your Citibank card is accepted at over 5 million establishments in 96 countries. And arranging airline tickets and car rentals with your card is a breeze.

And while you're building credits toward graduation, you'll be building a good credit history that will help you long after you graduate—when you're financing major purchases like a car, house or boat.

Apply today for a Citibank MasterCard or Visa card. Remember, you only qualify for this special college program while you're a student!

PLEASE SIGN THIS AUTHORIZATION

By signing below I authorize Citibank (South Dakota), N.A. to check my credit history and exchange information about how I handle my account with proper persons and with credit bureaus if I am issued a card. I authorize my employer, my bank, and any other references listed above to release and or verify information to Citibank (South Dakota), N.A. and its affiliates in order to determine my eligibility for the Citibank credit card. I am aware that information gathered about me is used to determine my eligibility for the credit card account and any renewal or future extension of credit. If I ask, I will be told whether or not consumer reports on me were requested and the names of the credit bureaus, with their addresses, that provided the reports. If I designate an authorized user to use my card, I understand that account information will also be reported to credit bureaus in the authorized user's name. I certify that I am 18 years of age, or older, and that the information provided is accurate. I understand that if I use the card or authorize its use or do not cancel my account within 30 days after I receive the card, the Citibank Agreement sent to me with the card will be binding on me. THE ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP FEE is $20. The ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE for purchases and for cash advances is 19.8%. There is a minimum finance charge of .50% for each billing period in which a finance charge, based on a periodic rate, is payable. GRACE PERIOD—You will have a "free-ride" period, without a finance charge when you pay your bill in full by the payment due date on your billing statement and take no cash advances during that period. If you do not pay your new balance in full by that date, you will be assessed a finance charge on the outstanding balance and on future purchases from the date such purchases are posted to your account. On cash advances, finance charges are assessed from the day you take the cash advance until the day we receive payment in full. LATE PAYMENT FEES—If your minimum payment is not received within 25 days after the payment due date, there is a $10 late payment fee. ADDITIONAL FINANCE CHARGE—There is an additional fee for each cash advance taken. If the cash advance is taken at a Financial Institution, this will be $1.75. BAD CHECK FEE—There is a $10 fee if your check is not honored or if we must return it because it cannot be processed. WISCONSIN RESIDENTS ONLY: Wisconsin law provides that no agreement, court order or individual statement applying to marital property will affect a creditor's interests unless prior to the time credit is granted, the creditor is furnished with a copy of the agreement, court order, or statement, or has actual knowledge of the adverse provision. In order to be considered for a Citibank MasterCard or Citibank Visa card you must complete and sign this application. Omission of any of the information requested in this application may be grounds for denial. Please allow 30 days to process your application.

COLLEGE JUST GOT EASIER!

Introducing the How to Succeed in College series, four great tape-and-text courses that will help you master the academic life by working smarter, not harder.

These courses are your ticket to a stress-free college degree, with tip after tip on how to select courses and professors, how to study more material in less time, how to prepare for exams and how to write papers that result in the grades you want. And, not the least of all, how to maintain your social life in the process.

Each course includes a 32-page text and a double-sided 60-minute tape. The tape allows you to learn at your leisure—while biking, exercising or relaxing. And the texts are a friendly, personable presentation of what once was a dry subject.

*This course is simply excellent.
I wish I'd had it as a Freshman!*

You can save $11.79 by getting the whole series in one package: all four tapes and a 160-page book for $29.95.

Use the order form below to order today, and really start to enjoy all that college has to offer.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE:

If you're not completely satisfied, return the course within 10 days for a full refund.

MCAT-GMAT

GAPS gives you the knowledge and confidence and the competitive edge you need to succeed on critical exams.

SCORE HIGH

Thousands of bright, otherwise eligible students are unfairly penalized every year for being underprepared, for not knowing critical test-taking skills or for freezing up during the actual exam, thus concealing their true "aptitude." You can overcome these problems if you know what kind of questions to expect, have learned proven test-taking strategies, and have practiced under simulated test conditions.

GAPS puts the proven learning techniques from the classroom into a convenient, study-at-home format.

NOTE: The number of cassettes and pages of text may vary slightly according to current exam content. Remember, these tests are changed frequently... and, unlike other courses, the GAPS program is constantly updated to change with them.

100% MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

The Graduate Admissions Preparation Service gives you the most risk-free guarantee available. You must be completely satisfied with your GAPS exam preparation course—from its content to its format—or we'll refund your money. Just return the course within 10 days of receipt for a full refund. No questions asked.
